FARM PRODUCTION PROBLEMS

Domestic consumption, foreign demand, soil conservation and farm income are the four yardsticks for measuring farm production set forth recently by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics.

As to domestic consumption, the bureau says, a population of 130 million of persons forecast as the average for the next five years would require about 265 million acres of harvested cropland to provide the same amount of food and fiber per person as in 1920-1929.

In addition the U. S. will need feed for slightly less than 14 million head of work stock used in producing.

Allowing two acres of grain and one acre of hay per head, slightly more than 40 million acres would be needed. That would put the total up to 305 million acres.

To meet those requirements America has a farm plant of about 365 million acres. The U. S. has more than 60 million acres of cropland that is apparently not needed and brings up the question of can the United States hope to sell the production of 60 million acres in foreign markets during the next few years.

Several forces are working to increase foreign trade for American farmers but great advances of export cannot be looked for.

The next question is should the United States reduce production. The Bureau claims, "when production is low farm income can be increased." There is, however, a level below which it is not to the advantage of the farmer to reduce farm output.

No single yardstick of the four is enough to solve the farm problem, "the bureau says," all must be taken into consideration in arriving at a decision on farm-production policy.

The bureau is making every effort to solve the problem of farm production for farmers in the United States.

AGE VARIANCE IN MARRIAGE

The older a man grows, the younger he wants his bride to be in comparison with his own age, according to the statisticians of a leading life insurance company, who base their statement on statistics of first marriages in New York State, exclusive of New York City.

Young brides choose their partners over a wider range of ages than young men do. In the case of a 21-year-old bride, the average age of the groom is 23.7 years, a difference of 2.7 years, while the average choice of a young man of 21 is a bride only 1.1 years younger, or 19.9 years of age.

The later a girl marries, the more nearly like her own, on an average, will be the age of her groom. For women who marry at age 25, the groom's age on an average is 26.8 years, or less than two years in excess of the bride's. At age 30, a woman chooses for her husband on an average a man about one year older than herself; and for ages of the bride above 30, there is little difference on an average between the age of bride and groom.

The situation is quite different with man. The older a man is at his first marriage is the disparity of ages between bride and groom likely to be. A man who marries for the first time at age 25 chooses, on an average, a bride 22.3 years old; at age 30, his bride on an average is 24.9 years old, at age 35, her average age is 27.8, and at age 40, it is 31.9; thus the difference in ages ranges from 1.1 years for a groom of age 21 to 8.1 years for a groom of age 40. The statisticians point out that an important social problem is involved in this wide difference in the age of husband and wife in the case of man marrying relatively late, for it tends to increase the risk of widowhood and orphanhood.

"The chances of these unfortunate states become great," the statisticians declare, "not only because it is the husband who is usually several years older than the wife, but also because the male suffers from a higher mortality than the female. This situation would be accentuated in a population in which there were a substantial amount of postponement of marriage, particularly on the part of the male, for the difference between his age and that of his bride tends to become greater as the age of the groom increases."

FOIL THE SUMMER BURGLAR

Summer is here — and the burglar is getting out his housebreaking tools. There are six burglary, robbery and theft losses for every fire loss, according to the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives. The vacation months, when so many residences are empty and unguarded, provide ideal working conditions for the housebreaker. He does not have to be wary of sleepers who may wake momentarily and sound an alarm. He need have no fear that a dog's angry barking will reveal his presence. He can work leisurely and thoroughly.

If persons who are leaving their homes unoccupied even for a short time this summer will take the following precautions, they will add greatly to their protection and peace of mind:

1. Lock securely all doors, windows or other entrances to the house.
2. Inform the police that your house will be empty. They can keep watch on it and try the doors and windows at regular intervals.
3. Take with you or lock securely all jewelry, silverware, furs, valuable clothing and other articles easily converted into cash by a thief.
4. Be sure to suspend all deliveries, such as milk, papers, mail. A heap of newspapers or milk bottle on a porch are sure sign that a house is unoccupied.

In view of the increasing widespread of burglary hazard to property, local citizens should take extra precautions at this time of the year. That is the most effective way they can aid crime control in the community.

WHY NOT GET STARTED?

From the New York World-Telegram.

President Roosevelt says he thinks that public employees should pay income taxes on the same basis that private citizens pay. That is fine.

The President also says he believes there should be no such thing as tax-exempt securities—which means that governmental securities of all kinds should be subject to the same taxes to which corporate securities are subject.

But, says the President, there seems to be something called constitutional law which inhibits taxation without discrimination. That is true. The Supreme Court in a long line of decisions has held that a salary paid by a state or a subdivision thereof cannot be taxed by the Federal Government and that a Federal salary cannot be taxed by a state government; also that Federal securities are exempt from state and local taxation and that the securities of states and subdivisions are exempt from Federal taxation, and the income from such securities likewise exempt.

So says the President, there seems to be nothing that can be done about it except to amend the Constitution. That is true only in part—the Federal Government could, without waiting for an amendment, tax the income of all securities it issues hereafter. But let us grant what the President says—for it is true that the amendment method is the only way to remove all discriminations.

And, adds the President, getting an amendment adopted takes a long, long time. Uttering that last truth, he lets the subject rest.

There it still rests. And there it will continue to rest—Until the President or somebody in Congress gets interested enough to start the amendment on its long, long trail.

They often talk about a man being fat and funny often because he thinks he is as attractive to the girls as he was when he was young and slim-waisted.

With the arrival of warmer weather Liberty Park is proving a most attractive spot with its numerous picnic parties and other gatherings there as well as the soft ball games, wrestling matches and other events coupled with the start of a series of band concerts.

CHAPTER 23

JACQUELINE managed to return Lutman's smile as she entered his apartment, and he led her to the big settee, placed a cushion behind her as she settled herself in the corner, and stood smiling down at her.

"And now a cup of tea or a cocktail?" he inquired.

"Neither, thanks, Colonel Lutman."

"A cigaret?"

He offered her his case, and Jacqueline took a cigaret, accepted a light, and sat for some moments inhaling the smoke and wondering how to begin. Now that she was here face to face with the Colonel, the conviction that she had set herself an impossible task suddenly returned to her. Of course he would not part with the check, and in any case she had not the least idea how to set about the task of persuading him.

"And to what, my dear Jacqueline, am I indebted for this charming surprise?" asked the Colonel. The girl took a deep breath.

"Colonel Lutman," she said. "It's no use beating about the bush. I've come about this check."

The Colonel screwed his eyes into position and smiled again.

"My dear Jacqueline," he said easily, "there is no need to trouble yourself about that. Your mother was wanting a little money in a hurry and I was only too glad to be of service to her. After all, it is quite a trifling sum."

"Seven hundred and fifty dollars isn't a trifling sum, Colonel Lutman. Not to mother. She had no right to ask you to cash the check because she must have known that there was no money to meet it. But I want to believe that mother was just foolish. She didn't realize that she was doing anything really wrong, and she had probably persuaded herself that before the check was returned from the bank something would happen so that she could repay you. Mother's like that. She persuades herself of anything she wants to believe, and I'm quite sure she meant to repay you."

Lutman raised a hand.

"There is no need to discuss that, Jacqueline," he said. "The question of repayment doesn't arise. Between your mother and myself..."

"But it does arise," interrupted the girl. "You said this morning..."

"I suggest," smiled the Colonel, "that we forget this morning."

Both of us, I am sure, said things which we did not really mean and would never have said if we hadn't been a little upset. I admit that I was perhaps a trifle—or dictatorial, but you must try to make allowances. As Jim Asson's trustee I was naturally distressed at what you told me. I am extremely fond of Jim, and I'm afraid

I was a little over-zealous on his behalf, and you, quite naturally, resented it. We'll leave it at that, shall we?"

Jacqueline eyed him doubtfully. It was hard to reconcile this genial, smiling Colonel Lutman with the man who only a few hours ago had tried to blackmail her into marrying Jim Asson. The very fact that, even when every allowance had been made for the shock of her refusal and his zeal on behalf of Jim Asson, he had threatened her with the check, made it hard to accept his present geniality at its face value. But it was of no use quarreling with him again.

"All right," smiled Jacqueline. "We'll agree that we both behaved rather badly this morning, and forget it. But there's still the question of the check. Mother owes you $750, and she can't possibly repay it at the moment."

"I suggest that we forget that, too."

"But you've got to be paid. Mother is dreadfully unhappy because she can't repay you now."

"There's no need for your mother to distress herself, Jacqueline. If she wishes to repay me, she can do so just whenever it suits her convenience. There's not the least hurry."

Again Jacqueline gave him a quick, doubtful glance. It sounded too good to be true.

"In that case, Colonel Lutman," she said, "will you accept my word that you will be repaid? It may take a little time, but I promise you that it shall all be paid eventually. Will that do?"

"My dear, say no more about it."

"You accept my word that the money will be paid?"

"Of course."

"And you'll give me the check?"

She was watching his face as she spoke and did not fail to note the slight tightening of his lips and the steeling light that showed for a moment in his eyes. But at once he smiled again.

"Ah, yes—the check," he said amiably. "And why do you want me to give you the check?"

Jacqueline shrugged a shoulder. "It's only natural that a mother should want it back, isn't it?" she said. "I suppose she realizes now what she has done and is uneasy about it. It's not the sort of thing to leave lying about."

"Quite," agreed Lutman. "There is always the risk that it might fall into unscrupulous hands. But your mother need not worry; it is quite safe in my writing desk."

He waved a hand toward a massive mahogany desk that stood in the window bay, and I'm not likely to part with it."

"You mean you won't give it to me?"

"Just for the present I prefer to leave it in my desk."

"Then you don't accept my word?"

"My dear Jacqueline, I accept your word just as wholeheartedly as you accept mine. As a matter of fact, I have a little scheme in connection with this much-discussed check. Quite a pleasant little scheme, I think you will agree. Since you place so much value on it, I fully intend to give it to you, but you must allow me to give it to you at my own time and in my own way."

"When?" she demanded.

"I have been thinking about that," replied Lutman, "and I flatter myself that I have hit on the psychological moment."

"When?" repeated the girl.

"To put the final touch of happiness to what I hope and believe will be the happiest day of your life, Jacqueline, I am going to hand the check to you on your wedding day. It will be the first present you will receive as a bride."

For some moments Jacqueline was silent, frowning thoughtfully. So that was the game! She might have known that there was something behind this genial mood of the Colonel's. She should have remembered that a blackguard is still a blackguard even though he wears an amiable smile.

"I see," she said at last. "In other words, you refuse to give it to me?"

"My dear Jacqueline, I have just told you that as soon as the wedding is over..."

"There's going to be no wedding," interrupted Jacqueline, angrily. "I told you so this morning, and I meant it. You couldn't bully me into it then, and you can't bully me into it now."

Whether you give me the check or keep it, I'm not going to marry Jim Asson."

Colonel Lutman smiled indulgently.

"You misunderstand me, my dear," he began, but Jacqueline sprang to her feet and cut him short with an impatient gesture.

"I understand you perfectly well," she said. "I told you this morning that you were a low-down blackmaling bully, and everything you've said this afternoon has shown me that I was right. You're still threatening and bullying and trying to blackmail me into marrying Jim Asson, but you haven't succeeded, and you won't succeed, and it's waste of time to discuss it any further."

He laid a hand on her arm, forced her gently but firmly onto the settee, and seated himself beside her.

"You're mistaken, my dear," he said. "Don't blame me, after my foolish display of temper this morning."

"I'm not going to marry Jim Asson, and there's nothing more to be said. I'm going."

She tried to rise, but Lutman's hand tightened on her arm and held her.

The DAILY WASHINGTON
MERRY GO ROUND
TRADE MARK REGISTERED

WASHINGTON—No preachment has been heard more frequently and fervently on the lips of New Dealers than the demand for drastic regulation of speculators and market manipulators. From the President down these operators have been a pet bugaboo of the Administration.

In view of this, it is most extraordinary that the Administration has gone about enforcing the Commodities Exchange Control Act with an apparently studied indifference.

This measure was put on the statute books last June after years of agitation and battling. Its enactment was acclaimed a great New Deal triumph in the interest of the farmer. The law was to be to the farmer what the Securities and Exchange Acts are to the investor in stocks and bonds.

Yet today, twelve months later, so little has been done under this vaunted scourge that even in Washington few remember it exists. This is the administrative record under the act.

Not a single meeting held by the three-man Cabinet board—Secretaries Wallace, Roper and Attorney General Cummings—which was given authority to curb speculation on the commodity exchanges.

Not one regulatory rule or order issued.

Not a move made to check wash sales, prohibit bucketing or certain brokers' practice of using customers' funds for their own operations. Traders have been warned that the law prohibits this, but beyond that nothing has been done.

And judging from the timidity and uncertainty displayed by J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the Commodities Exchange Administration created to enforce the law, nothing is likely to be done about it. A career man of many years service in the Agriculture Department, Duvel gives every impression of having little stomach for the high-powered act placed in his hands.

Publicly he blames lack of funds for the inactivity. Last year Congress gave the CEA $300,000 which was used chiefly to assemble a staff of 70, of which 18 are located in Washington. This year $350,000 is being sought for the agency.

Whatever has been the reason, the law has been very thoroughly squelched. Henry Wallace, whose Department of Agriculture has jurisdiction over the CEA, talks as indignantly as ever about food gamblers and speculators, but he has yet to do anything to curb them with the extensive powers placed in his control.

Astrology and Senators

Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes, wife of the ex-Senator from New Hampshire, gets a great kick out of astrology and numerology. The other day she got in touch with a well-known astrologist in Washington through a third party, specifying that there must be no names mentioned.

Arriving at the seance, Mrs. Keyes said: "Now after it's all over, my dear, I'm going to tell you exactly who I am."

All during the seance which followed, Mrs. Keyes took careful notes on what the astrologist said and compared them with previous readings. She pronounced it a very accurate reading.

However, the astrologist confessed privately afterward that she thought she was reading Mrs. Oscar Underwood, wife of the late Senator from Alabama.

Irish Politics

The Irish grapevine indicates that Mrs. Genevieve Garvan Brady, widow of Nicholas F. Brady the utilities magnate, still is maneuvering to have her new husband, William J. Babington Macaulay, made Minister of the Irish Free State in Washington.

At present her husband is Irish Minister to the Vatican, a very comfortable post, without the glamour and importance of the Washington assignments. If she gets this coveted appointment for her husband, the new Mrs. Macaulay is reported to be ready to step out on a scale that will make the Soviet Embassy a piker.

However, Mrs. Macaulay is encountering opposition, and strangely enough it comes chiefly from Irish-Americans who knew her when she was plain Genevieve Garvan, daughter of a Hartford, Conn., paper maker.

Now a Papal Duchess, Mrs. Macaulay recently donated her Long Island estate, "Inisfada," to the Jesuit Fathers. But it will take more than that to overcome the popularity of Michael MacWhite, the Irish Free State's present Minister to the U. S.

Senate Bank-Runner

Tourists who peer into the barred doorway of the old Supreme Court room in the Capitol usually miss another spectacle on the other side of the corridor. Big George Boyd sits there watching them, chewing reflectively on the butt end of a cigar.

Boyd's job is to guard the disbursement office, and to carry the money-bags of the United States Senate. For fifteen years he has watched the people and the money come and go.

Boyd once was a detective on the Metropolitan Police force of Washington, and has developed a healthy scorn for J. Edgar Hoover and his G-Men.

"All they think about is publicity," says Boyd. "The G-Men are just a bunch of kids who are so nervous they can't keep their fingers off a gun."

He says the Federal Bureau of Investigation once was assigned the job of finding a missing Senator. After two weeks of their "scientific research," Boyd was called in. He knew the Senator owed money. So he went to the Senator's banker, discovered he had drawn more money and was at a speakeasy. George found him within two hours and sent him to a sanatorium.

During the War, detective Boyd was assigned to Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt. His comment on that assignment is: "He's just like Al Smith; you can't help liking him."

Note—Wonder if Al and FDR would agree to that?

FEET NEED CARE ALL THE TIME

A traveling salesman said to me, "My feet would make me lose thousands of dollars if I did not take care of them. When my feet hurt I am grouchy, impatient and unreasonable. I lose all my tact and diplomacy."

Some department stores employ podiatrists on their medical staffs to keep the feet of their salesgirls healthy. They consider it a good investment, because they know how easy it is for a weary, foot-sore salesperson to lose business.

In industry, employers recognize that the care of the feet aids good health and promotes safety. No factory employee is trustworthy on a delicate, complicated machine if attention is constantly distracted by a painful foot. Defective shoes are a source of accidents, particularly in the case of women, they being the greatest sufferers. Old shoes should be barred as a safety health measure. Women in shops should wear oxfords, medium wide toes, with flexible soles and kid leather upper parts and heels not over 1½ inches in height. Rubber heels will absorb the shock of pounding on hard floors. Men in shops should select shoes with flexible soles to prevent exertion in bending the feet, and with upper parts of lightweight calf, or elk for heavier work.

Foot's Danger at Play

The foot is also in danger at play, as witness the term which has become so popular, "athlete's foot". This is an infection with a microscopic fungus plant, which gets into the skin of feet which have been macerated by standing in a shower bath. Naturally one person with an infected foot can leave enough on a gymnasium floor to infect the feet of an entire club. People differ in their sensitiveness to this infection. I knew one man who was so susceptible to it that he had to give up bathing in the locker of his club entirely, and did all of his changing at home in his own bathroom. Even then he had to keep the floor rubbed with an antiseptic so as to be sure that he would not re-infect himself.

Poor shoes also play a part in the production of athlete's foot. Moisture and heat accumulate in heavy shoes and keep the skin soft and macerated. Feet need ventilation.

Those who are troubled with re-infection of athlete's foot should keep a formaldehyde pad in the shoes over night.

Surprise To Bride-Elect

Miss Doris Dabner, South Marshall avenue, had as her guests over the weekend Misses Margaret and Gladys Moore of Kansas City. Miss Margaret, a former Sedalian, who is to become the bride of Mr. Lynn Courtney of Kansas City, July 2, was pleasantly surprised Sunday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower by several of her friends. The afternoon was spent taking snap shots for the bride's book.

Velton Dabner, brother of the hostess, pulled a wagon, decorated for the occasion, loaded with lovely gifts to the bride-to-be.

Miss Moore cut a two tier wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom on top which was served to the following guests: Misses Margaret and Gladys Moore, Lillian Thistlethwaite, Helen Gudorp, Anna Catherine Sullivan and Doris Dabner; Mesdames Everett White, Paul Goin of Rolla, Paul Burke, Rynoldo Potter, Orville Whittle, Leo Noland and Teddy Dabner.

Miss Dabner was assisted in serving by Mrs. Ted Dabner and Mrs. George Dabner.

Mrs. Haverty Complimented

Mrs. Henry Haverty, of Hollywood, Calif., who is visiting friends in this city, spent last weekend as a guest of Mrs. A. W. Kokendoffer and this week will be guest of Mrs. George Bichsel for several days.

Thursday Rev. and Mrs. Kokendoffer, Miss Margaret Bapple and Mrs. Atwill Bohling and Mrs. Haverty drove to the Ozark country, visited several interesting places, and had lunch at Ozark Inn.

Friday Mrs. Kokendoffer honored Mrs. Haverty with a lunch at her home, 908 South Ohio avenue. In the dining room were lovely roses and corn flowers and after lunch the guests spent the afternoon reminiscing of the days Mrs. Haverty lived in Sedalia. Those attending were Mrs. George Bichsel, Mrs. Charles Gentry, Mrs. A. H. Wilks, Mrs. Belle Griffith, Mrs. St. rett and Mrs. Haverty.

Mrs. Haverty is known on the screen and radio as Grace Wood, and she delighted the Sedalians with many interesting incidents and facts of the movie world. Her sister, Mrs. Fern Carter as Fern Baker was reared in Sedalia, is instructor, and has been for sixteen years, of the members of "Our Gang."

Party for Cousins

Miss Betty Rae Milton, 1300 West Fourth Street, entertained seventeen guests with a dinner party Saturday in honor of her cousins, Misses Louise and Jean Milton who are leaving next Monday for a girls camp at Minocqua, Wis., to be gone eight weeks. Following the dinner there was a line party for the girls. Those invited were: Misses Betty Mae Trader, Janet Stanley, Martha Jones, Charlotte Smith, Mary Jean Smith, Virginia Sharp, Betty Reid, Patty Quinn, Mary McGrath, Caroline Cloney, LaVonne Wright, Mary Beth Kueck, Jean Milton, Louise Milton, and Mary Jane Allison.

Birthday Dinner

A birthday dinner in honor of J. W. Sumner's seventy-second birthday was held yesterday at his home, 1316 East Thirteenth Street. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Sumner from Coffeyville, Kansas, Claude Sumner from South Bend, Ind., Joe Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clements all of Sedalia.

BIZARRE MYSTERY IN WOMAN'S DEATH

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—The body of a red-haired woman lying under a house beside what appeared to be a crudely-dug grave provided police with a bizarre mystery today.

Ten-year-old Malcolm Alberts found the body when he crawled under the house yesterday to retrieve a baseball.

Detectives found what they said looked like two graves under the house. Both were about one foot in depth and five feet square, one was near the body, the other 30 feet away.

The woman—unidentified—had been dead about two months. A preliminary examination indicated she had been shot in the head after having been attacked. She was apparently middle-aged.

The body was clad in a blue kimono of expensive silk and blue house slippers.

The woman wore a wedding ring on which was inscribed: "Hal to Alice, Aug. 31, 1912."

The building is a four-family flat in the Wilshire district. The ground floor apartments were vacant until recently. Mrs. Lotta Meyers, an invalid, who lives on the second story, provided police their only clue.

About two months ago, she said, she was awakened by strange cries. "It was so strange that I sat up and wakened my nurse," she related. "The noises continued for a time and then we heard strangled screams—murder, murder, murder."

"Then the screams died out. It sounded as if the person was losing strength—growing weaker, perhaps being choked."

The nurse saw an automobile speed away.

FAMILY REUNION IS BEING HELD HERE

Mrs. Frank Crum of Wilbur, Wash., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Freudenberger of 1514 South Osage Avenue. She went to Washington to teach school and this is the first time she has been back for eighteen years. Mrs. Crum formerly taught in the Tanglenook school near Sedalia.

There are seven daughters in the Freudenberger family, and four other sisters are here visiting with their parents and sister, Mrs. Crum. They are: Mrs. Clarence Morrison and daughters, Helen Marie and Maurine; Mrs. John Carpenter and sons, Richard and Joseph, all of Pittsburg, Kas.; Mrs. E. E. Marshall of California, Mo., and Mrs. Sara Hilton of Sedalia. Mrs. Donald Volentine of San Antonio, Texas and Mrs. C. W. Hunt of Las Vegas, Nevada were unable to be here.

Mrs. Crum will accompany her two sisters when they return to Pittsburg, Monday, for a visit with them. She expects to be back in Wilbur, Washington the Fourth of July.

DEMONSTRATION TO QUISENBERRY CLUB

The home of Mrs. J. C. Longan was the scene of a pleasant gathering of Quisenberry club women on Wednesday, June 16 with Mrs. E. B. Read as assistant hostess.

The demonstration of easily made and inexpensive salads was given by Mrs. Henry Cook and proved helpful and interesting.

Roll call was answered by giving hints in jelly making or an easily prepared supper for hot weather.

Mrs. Monk and Mrs. Earl Borchers were guests of the club.

After the business meeting the program committee presented the following program.

History of Our Flag—June Thompson.

Courtesy to Our Flag—Marjorie Donahoe.

Motor Laws and Courtesies—Mrs. L. H. Haggard.

Interesting items from the "Farm Bureau News"—Mrs. G. S. Thompson, Mrs. Mike Donahoe, Mrs. E. B. Helman, Mrs. John Witcher and Mrs. B. D. Payton.

The hostesses expressed appreciation for the beautiful bouquets of flowers brought by club members and guests.

Mrs. P. S. Read gave a report of cookies sent the County Home on Good Will day by our club.

July meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Fred Albers with Miss Isadore Clement as assisting hostess.

Roll call to be answered with "Why I like or dislike picnic lunches" or "Where I would like to go on a vacation."

All women of the community are welcome.

The Brick Homemakers Club met at the home of Mrs. Ira Page, June 15, with thirteen members present. There were seven adult visitors: Mrs. Jess Stratton, Mrs. Sam Homan, Mrs. Frank Homan, Mrs. Linn Homan, Mrs. Fred Homan, Mrs. Martha Broderson and Miss Ruth Page. There were also twenty-two children present.

The president, Mrs. Perkins, called the business meeting to order in the morning. After roll call the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. The club sang "Stars of a Summer Night," and two other Spanish songs were sung, "Juanita" and "Spanish Cavalier."

A report was given on 4-H club by the leader, Mrs. J. H. Parsons.

A short talk on Flag Day was given by the president.

The "fair committee," Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Fry, Mrs. Burford, Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Potter made plans to meet in a few days to decide about the fair in September.

At noon a delicious covered dish luncheon was served.

As the home demonstration agent couldn't attend the afternoon meeting little was said on the subject, "Dress Design." The afternoon was spent in conversation and needlework.

HOMEMAKERS OF HOPEWELL MET

The Hopewell Homemakers Club of near Newland met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Payne Thursday. Mrs. Payne was ably assisted by Mrs. Golden Payne and Mrs. C. H. Williams.

At the noon hour a delicious dinner was served to all.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday June 27, 1937.

"Golden Text" Isaiah 11:9. "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people" (Matt. 4:23).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Truth, Life, and Love gave Jesus authority over sin, sickness, and death. His mission was to reveal the Science of celestial being, to prove what God is and what He does for man. Our Master taught no mere theory, doctrine, or belief. It was the divine Principle of all real being, which he taught and practised. His proof of Christianity was no form or system of religion and worship, but Christian Science, working out the harmony of Life and Love" (p.26).

NEW FURNITURE IS PLACED IN "CUPID'S PARLOR" IN K. C.

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, June 21.—A remarkable opera singing Mary McCormic made after her marriage to Homer V. Johannsen, Chicago lawyer, last fall was recalled as new leather and chromium furniture replaced the old straight chairs in the "Cupid's Parlor" adjoining the marriage license bureau here.

"They shunted us into a room that had no windows," the singer told newsmen the next day. "It was so bare it looked like a saloon. I didn't know whether to say 'I do' or order two beers."

BASQUES TO MAKE DEFENSE NOW TO SAVE SANTANDER

Road Ghastly Spectacle
Littered with the Dead and Dying

By The Associated Press.

CASTRO-URDIALES, Spain, June 21.—Exposed to ceaseless shelling from the sea and bombing from the air, the shattered remnants of the Basque army entrenched themselves in the Galdames mountains today for a fight to save Santander from the fate of Bilbao, their last capital.

The Basques consolidated their weary forces in the hills which parallel the highway about a third of the way from Bilbao to this city, which is 30 miles from Bilbao on the Bay of Biscay.

Without sleep for five days and without food for almost as long, the Basque army was hampered by thousands of refugees, who plodded along the road from the conquered capital.

The insurgent warships Almirante Cervera and Velasco hurled shells after shell onto the refugee-packed Santander road.

A fleet of insurgent planes—estimated to number 11—sprayed the highway with machine gun bullets. The road presented a ghastly spectacle. It was littered with dead and dying women and children. At other points there were dead mules and cattle and smashed wagons and automobiles.

The Associated Press correspondent's automobile was struck by a shell splinter while he was taking his dispatch to a boat for relay by way of Bayonne, France.

All available ships in the Nervion estuary had been filled with refugees before the capture of Bilbao. Several of the ships, including the barge Gohela, with hundreds on board, were believed sunk by insurgent shells.

Turn Toward Santander

BILBAO, Spain, June 21.—Improved footbridges were thrown across the river Nervion today to speed the movement of the main body of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's victorious insurgent army against Santander, last stronghold of the Basques.

A line of advance guards was pushed out about six miles west of Bilbao, conquered Saturday in a whirlwind climax to a three-month siege.

(Reports from Santander denied that Bilbao had been totally occupied by the insurgents and declared the Basques were grimly disputing the crossing of the Nervion.)

An acute shortage of water speeded the drive toward Santander. The city's main water supply was cut off because of broken conduits and most of the breaks were in territory still held by government forces.

Complete subjugation of Santander province was considered necessary before the menace of a water famine could be overcome.

Five food-laden ships were reported en route to Bilbao from the insurgent held port of San Sebastian to the west to relieve the problem of feeding the 300,000 hungry inhabitants.

An odd mixture of ox carts and army trucks jammed the roads, bringing in huge stores of white bread which, with the supplies of water, was a luxurious meal for the citizens of Bilbao, many of whom has tasted neither for the last four days of the siege.

The city, otherwise, was rapidly returning to normal.

Mine "Splits" Hospital

MADRID, June 21.—A huge government mine exploded today in suburban University City, where 3,000 Spanish insurgent troops have resisted siege for three months.

Government General Jose Mija announced the explosion "split in half" the University City clinical hospital, insurgent hideout. The blast was heard all over Madrid.

Immediately after the explosion both government and insurgent troops engaged in heavy fire, which died down as the morning wore on. Insurgents continued to hold the wrecked hospital building, but government officers said their position had been greatly weakened.

DR. W. E. MORROW DEAN OF COLLEGE FACULTY IS DEAD

End Comes to Well Known Educator at War-rensburg

By The Associated Press.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., June 21.—Funeral services will be held here tonight for Dr. Walter E. Morrow, 65, dean of the faculty and head of the economics department of Central Missouri State Teachers' college. He died early Sunday of a paralytic stroke suffered May 14.

Dr. Morrow was elected moderator of the general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church in 1925 and served many times as moderator of this Presbytery.

Funeral services for Dr. Morrow will be at 6 o'clock at the Cumberland Presbyterian church, conducted by the Rev. Ward Edwards, chaplain and librarian of the college. The death of Dr. Morrow brought to an end forty years of active service to the schools of Warrensburg and Western Missouri. He served first as principal of a ward school and was superintendent of city schools from 1902 to 1909, when he entered the college, then designated as a state normal. He later became head of the economics department and in 1925 was elected dean of the faculty. He was one of the best known school men in this section and each spring delivered commencement addresses throughout the Central Missouri district.

A leader in the Cumberland Presbyterian church, Dr. Morrow served as an elder and trustee in Warrensburg more than thirty years and often filled the pulpit.

Doctor's Degree From Jewell
A doctor's degree was conferred upon him in 1928 at William Jewell college. He had a great interest in athletics and often was referred to as the best friend of college athletics here, although he never participated in sports himself.

Surviving are his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Amos L. Burks, 5229 1/2 Paeso, Kansas City, and two grandsons, Walter Morrow Burks and James Lundy Burks. Amos L. Burks is a teacher in Kansas City Junior college.

Russian Fliers Are Forced Down Short Of Goal

point of which the Polar air froze even their drinking water, were pleased when from among a group of Americans whose English left them stumped they heard a young man shout: "Sdractrach!" ("hello" in Russian.)

Guard of Soldiers
Thereafter until a guard of soldiers was assigned the visitors, George Kozmetsky was their companion.

After their course had been picked up only at infrequent intervals, the Russians arrived over the Pacific Northwest before dawn Sunday. Heading straight down the coast, they first wandered about in miserable flying weather and flew 125 miles south of here to Eugene, Ore. With the weather getting steadily worse, they banked around and headed northward until they sighted the barracks airport.

Kozmetsky, a University of Washington student taking reserve officers training at the barracks, and his tentmates, Frank Allen and Kenneth Kirtley, University of Oregon students, saw the single-motored ship alight and recognized it. Chkaloff, first out of the plane, mumbled a rapid-fire series of "noes" as the Americans fired questions at him. Cautiously they kept everyone out of the cabin until a guard of soldiers could surround the plane.

Stormy Over Sea

In the subsequent radio broadcast in which Ambassador Troyanovsky paraphrased the fliers' remarks, Chkaloff revealed that the most trying parts of the flight were in stormy weather over the Bering Sea, Franz Josef Land, Patrick Land and near the North Pole.

The pilot traced the course up the Kola peninsula, between Franz Josef Land and the North Arctic island, out over the Arctic wastes and across the Pole, southward over Prince Patrick Island, the Great Bear Lake east of the Yukon and down west of Fort Simpson to Chichkofog on the Cross Straits. From there the course lay south inside of Queen Charlotte Island, over Vancouver Island to Victoria and down Washington's Olympic peninsula.

But for the weather, the pilot said he could have made San Francisco, as he had enough gasoline left out of the original 2,000 gallons to fly 750 miles.

Bellakoff in answer to questions of the ambassador said in Troyanovsky's words:

"They think that the problem (of a regular air route) is very physical. They believe that over such a course planes should be equipped to fly high—say at 7,000 to 10,000 meters."

They said their flight was made at altitudes ranging from 4,000 to 6,000 meters, and the plane, not built for speed, averaged 100 miles an hour.

Kozmetsky, telling of the meeting with Chkaloff, said:

"I saluted him and said 'Sdractrach!' (hello) and he shook my hand. He then turned around and put checks under the wheels of the plane, blocking it."

The fliers who had subsisted during the flight on tea and lemon juice, attended to General Marshall's bacon and eggs with appreciative, ravenous appetites. They asked for cognac and there was none. The general offered them whisky but they grimaced at the first sip and declined it. A search of Vancouver turned up the cognac of which they downed two bottles.

The actual mileage flown was left to official determination, but the distance from Moscow to Vancouver was figured roughly at 5,300 miles, well under the official world distance record of 5,637 miles held by the Frenchman Paul Coudas and Maurice Rossi, and the Russians' own unofficial mark of 5,558 miles between Moscow and Nicolaevski in Eastern Siberia. The Russians were believed to have flown more than the 5,300 miles, since they went past here down the coast before turning back and landing.

Praised on Flight
The airman received telegrams of congratulations from President Roosevelt and Josef Stalin, Soviet dictator, who complimented them on their achievement.

Chkaloff's first request, in Russian to Kozmetsky, was for a glass of water. As he walked from the ship, Mrs. M. R. Lett, Portland, called to him in his native language.

She said the pilot told her he was "very happy" but disappointed over the failure to reach San Francisco and "very tired."

Operators Order Reopening Of The Steel Mills

straining the activities of strike pickets.

On the Johnstown front of the strike, the great Cambria works of Bethlehem Steel were closed under a martial law proclamation of Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania.

Non-committal as to plans and hopes of the mediation conference, the steel union leaders and the federal mediation board continued deliberations behind locked doors in a Cleveland hotel suite.

After the conference with C. I. O. chieftains, the mediators planned to confer with heads of the strike-embroiled steel companies—Sheet and Tube, Republic, Bethlehem, and the Inland Steel Company.

Headed by Charles P. Taft, the board has as other members Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin, and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor.

Says Protection Promised
Youngstown Sheet and Tube employees 15,000 to 18,000 men in the Mahoning valley.

Purnell's order said: "All employees who want to work should enter the plants at 7 a. m." He added that time and a half would be paid for all work over an 8-hour shift.

Republic Steel employees 6,000 in the plant that has been ordered reopened.

Purnell said the mayors of Youngstown, Campbell, Struthers and Hubbard, and Sheriff Ralph E. Elser "have stated to me they are willing and now able to protect company employees lawfully asserting their right to resume work."

Ray L. Thomas, counsel for the back-to-work movement of Sheet and Tube employees said: "We'll just walk them in."

He asserted 280 policemen and 120 special deputy sheriffs would be on hand.

Thomas declared Saturday night's fighting was "part of the C. I. O. strategy to have Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio intervene in the strike."

"Gov. Earle in Pennsylvania fell for that hook," said Thomas. "I'm hoping Gov. Davey won't be silly enough to fall for such bunk."

He referred to the union's call for troops after the Saturday night fighting.

In Cleveland Lewis, truculently silent, hurried from the train to the conference rooms.

With him at the meeting were Lee Pressman, C. I. O. counsel; John Owens, Ohio C. I. O. director; David McDonald, Steel Workers Organizing Committee secretary-treasurer, and Van A. Bittner, SWOC Chicago director.

"Maintain Law And Order"
Sheriff Elser of Youngstown issued the following statement:

"I am not going to use my force to break strikes but I expect to have enough men to maintain law and order."

"I will deputize whatever men it takes to keep order."

Asked how his deputies would be armed, the sheriff asked "how are they (strikers) going to be armed?"

"We are mediators, not arbitrators," said Charles P. Taft, II, chairman of the board-of-three which swung into action for the government in the seven-state tieup of steel plants.

"We have no power to compel settlement. We cannot make the four steel corporations sign contracts, as the C. I. O. demands; nor can we compel the C. I. O. to call off the strike that has put 100,000 men out of work. We can only try to find a meeting ground for peace."

There was fresh blood on the 26-day-old strike as the mediators started to work; the blood of James Eperjess, a strike picket.

He died last night, his chest ripped by charges of buckshot fired in a three-hour fight between pickets and police at Youngstown, O., Saturday night. Another picket, had died during the fighting. Added to the ten Memorial Day dead in South Chicago, Ill., they brought the strike death list to 12.

Martial Law Invoked
Steel came to the mediation conference with a new grievance, born of the enforced closing—it was by order of Pennsylvania's Governor Earle—of Bethlehem Steel's great mills at Johnstown, Pa.

The governor had asked that the mills be closed "to avoid bloodshed" for he feared the tense feeling between strikers and non-strikers might flare beyond the power of local officials to control.

Bethlehem officials declined to close the mills that have kept smoke rolling proudly from their great stacks despite C. I. O.'s long picket line. They bowed to the governor's will only when he invoked martial law and told Bethlehem he would close the mills by force of arms, if necessary.

Casualties in the Youngstown bullet punctuated battle numbered 30 wounded or injured, police said, but C. I. O. leaders claimed 50 fell in the clash.

Six women were wounded, including Mary Heaton Vorse, of Washington, a New Republic magazine writer, whose temple was grazed by a bullet. A Youngstown (Victicator) newspaper photographer, Ed Sault, received shotgun pellet wounds in both legs and one arm after he took a flashlight picture of the melee.

Five deputy sheriffs fell in the encounter, fought amid the acrid fumes of tear gas.

The precipitating cause of the violence was in dispute—strike leaders claimed city police provoked the strife by firing tear gas at women assembled on the picket

ARTHUR McQUIDDY TO JOIN BROTHER TRAVELING IN EAST

Arthur McQuiddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McQuiddy, 514 South Kentucky avenue, left this morning for Clairmont, N. H., by way of New York City, where he will join his brother, Edgar McQuiddy and his wife, formerly Miss Virginia Dyer of Sedalia. He will spend the summer months traveling with them throughout the eastern states, and return to Missouri in September to re-enroll in the Kansas City Art Institute, where he has won a scholarship which cares for his second year of work in the institute. The scholarship is an honor and mark of recognition of his outstanding work during his first year. Arthur is the creator of the Democrat-Capital Sunday "News of The Week" highlights in pen and ink. During his absence they will be discontinued.

ENDS LIFE RATHER THAN SERVE TERM

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21.—Carl Collins, 49, of Steelville, died in the state penitentiary hospital Sunday from throat cuts which officers said were self-inflicted shortly before he was brought here to serve a 25-year sentence for murder. Deputy Warden Tom Scott said Collins was convicted in connection with the death of his wife and her former husband.

Proper Care of Harness Will Lengthen Durability

Care of the farm harness greatly lengthens its durability. Wash and oil it occasionally, advises a writer in Wallaces' Farmer.

For washing, use tepid water, a neutral soap such as castile or white toilet soap, and a sponge or fairly stiff brush. A dull knife will remove hardened grease. Then rinse in the water and allow the harness to hang in a warm place until it is no longer wet, though still damp.

Next oil it and leave it in a warm place for twenty-four hours before using. Do the oiling or greasing while the leather is still damp; otherwise, it may take up so much grease that it will pull out of shape, or it may take up sand and grit. Harness should never look or feel greasy.

Neatsfoot or castor oil, or a mixture of these with wool grease, is preferred for treating driving harness. For heavy harness, use neatsfoot oil, a mixture of neatsfoot and tallow, or all of these wool greases, to make a paste having about the consistency of butter. Apply the oil or grease liberally to the work harness. Have the material warm to the hand, and rub it in thoroughly. After the harness has hung in a warm room overnight, remove the excess oil or grease with a clean, dry cloth. Too much grease darkens the leather and soils the clothing.

First to Grow Timothy

Historians tell us that timothy was first grown in the United States by one John Herd, about 1717, along the banks of the Piscataqua river between Portsmouth and Dover, New Hampshire. Whether he imported the seed from England or some other European country, or whether he found it growing wild, we are not certain, notes a writer in Hoard's Dairyman. About this time, Timothy Hansen introduced the crop into Maryland from somewhere in New England, and while Hansen does not appear to have been the first grower, he nevertheless bequeathed his name to the crop. However, in some parts of New England and New Hampshire in particular, "Herd's Grass" it is to this day.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS HOLD AN OUTING

Camp Fire Girls of this and other states are having their annual outing at Camp Shawnee in the federal park near Montserrat, and are enjoying outdoor life to the fullest. The past week ninety-six girls were in camp occupying the cabins and utilizing the spacious dining hall and other buildings erected.

The lake at the park has not been constructed, but a swimming pool, just completed, furnishes a refreshing spot for the girls after their routine of outdoor amusements and training. Most of the girls in camp the past week were from Tulsa, Okla. The public is not privileged to that portion of the park turned over to the Camp Fire Girls for an eight weeks' part, last week being the first of the summer vacation activities.

HEAVYWEIGHT GO NEARING CLIMAX IN AMAZING CALM

But a Financial Success Is Assured Despite a Lack of Fanfare

LOUIS MAY BE 3-1 SHOT AT RING TIME

Braddock Not Afraid and Predicts He Will Win by a Knockout

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, June 21.—(P)—The world's heavyweight championship fight between James J. Braddock and Bomber Joe Louis, set for Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, tomorrow night, moved toward its climax with amazing calm today.

There were no arguments about the selection of a referee, no last minute legal attempts to halt the contest, no ticket speculating scandal and very little—if any—wagering on the outcome.

Yet the bout, scheduled for 15 rounds or less, will be assured of financial success, with a likely attendance of 60,000 and gate receipts of from $700,000 to $750,000. Out of this sum will go perhaps $200,000 to the champion, Braddock, who only a few years ago was on the federal relief rolls, and possibly $100,000 to Louis, who only four years ago was a $5 a day automobile factory worker in Detroit.

Various estimates placed the cash in the strong box of Mike Jacobs, co-promoter with Joe Foley, at between $550,000 and $650,000, depending upon who says what. Jacobs said 60 per cent of the total sales to date have been to out-of-town customers.

Louis May Be 3-1 Choice
All the ballyhoo about Louis being sluggish in his drills and the champion being too old to retain his title against the dynamite laden fists of the 22-year old Negro failed to stimulate betting. The bout is liable to go down as one of the lightest-wagering affairs in ring history. Sentiment is heavily in favor of the champion but fear of Louis' devastating punching and power is keeping many a heart from running away with the head-and-pocket-book.

Louis probably will enter the ring a favorite at odds that may be 3 to 1, one of the few times a challenger ever has become a favorite over the heavyweight champion, and the only time a challenger went into the ring in a heavyweight bout at such long odds.

Champion Goes to Chicago
Braddock left his training camp at Grand Beach, Mich., today, motoring to Chicago to remain in seclusion until time to weigh in at noon Tuesday at the Auditorium Theater. Louis intends to remain in his palatial quarters on the shore of Lake Michigan until coming to Chicago tomorrow to jump on the scales. He figures to weigh about 198, with Braddock coming in at 196.

Braddock was in high spirits as he brought to an end his long training siege and predicted he would win by a knockout in eight rounds. "I have never been afraid of any fighter," he said, "and Louis holds no terrors for me. I will fight him every step of the way. If I'm defeated it will not be through fear. I will not quit. It will take a clean knockout to keep me down for the count. There will be a knockout tomorrow night, but it will be Louis, instead of me, who will be counted out. There are some who say I may be rusty for not fighting since I took the title from Max Baer two years ago. That's not correct. My legs are strong and my eyes are sharp and I'm ready."

If Braddock goes he'll go early, according to the experts, and the longer he stays the longer and sadder the night will be for Louis.

A BIG WEEK END BRINGS CHANGES IN BOTH LEAGUES

Cards Move Into Second Place While Bees and A's Drop to Cellar

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, June 21.—All in all, mates, it was a big week-end in baseball.

The standings in both loops changed like the "zoid" in a dollar watch.

The Boston Bees joined the Cincinnati Reds in the National League cellar, and the Athletics did the same with the bewildered Browns in the American League.

Here was the set-up:
The Cardinals were in second place in the National League. Lon Warneke pitched a four-hitter and Dizzy Dean a five-hitter to belt the stingless Bees 6-2 and 9-1 yesterday and turn the trick. Dizzy's doings made him the first ten-game winner of the year, and Ducky Medwick walloped homer No. 15.

The Giants, still minus the winning ways of meal ticket Carl Hubbell, sagged to third place, although they won their single game from the Reds yesterday 4-3, with the aid of the breaks.

The year's top crowd, 65,339, packed Yankee Stadium to see Murderers' Row pound the White Sox all over the lot and win twice 8-4 and 7-4, with the aid of five homers, including No. 15 for Joe Dimaggio. Lefty Gomez turned in a six-hitter in the opener and Monte Pearson made his first start after a month-long layoff in the nightcap.

After extending their winning streak to six straight, longest in two years, by taking the double hit opener from the Indians 5-2, the Red Sox dropped the nightcap 8-7, but still retained fourth place.

Detroit's Tigers took advantage of tight throwing by Elden Auker and Tommy Bridges and flogged the floundering Athletics in a pair, 6-3 and 8-1.

This twin whipping dropped the A's into a last-place tie, as the Browns were unable to do much with Wes Ferrell and lost 5-3 in their single game with the Senators. It was three straight for Ferrell since he traded his Red Sox uniform for the Nat scepter.

After spending a day in the National League cellar, the Phillies advanced all the way to sixth with a 6-5 conquest of the league-leading Chicago Cubs. The victory boosted the Phils past both the Reds and Bees, and cut the Cubs' pace-setting margin to one slim game.

It was Van Mungo to the rescue again as the Dodgers split with the Pittsburgh Pirates. After dropping the opener 4-2 to Joe Bowman's effective elbowing, the Brooklyn teed off on Red Lucas in the nightcap, and then had to call on their fireball ace to save the situation and a 4-2 decision.

GRANTLAND RICE Describes The Happy Ending To A Seattle Motorist's Week-End Trip

The strains of "When We Come To The End of A Perfect Day" seemed to fit the mood of Mr. Jack Davis of Seattle, Washington, and his party of four, as they motored along the scenery-laden paths leading down from Mt. Off the road they shot.

Why any motorist should trust ordinary tires is beyond me. Especially when the engineers of The E. F. ATHLETICS WHIP WINDSOR 75 CLUB BY AN 8-3 SCORE

Six-Run Spree in First Inning Ends Sedalians' Losing Streak

The Sedalia Athletics batters which have been silenced for the past two weeks came to life in the first inning Sunday afternoon to score six runs and coast through to a 8 to 3 victory over the Windsor 75 club before a large crowd at Liberty Park.

The visitors got away in the lead with one run in the first frame when Hutson walked, went to second as Adair hit an easy hopper to Horner who threw late to second, and scored on a short passed ball after Mitchell had walked to fill the bases.

The A's, however, set off the fireworks in their half of the first. Light doubled to left, Brownfield beat out a bunt, Sauter smashed a single to right scoring Light, Zey singled to right scoring Brownfield and Sauter. Livengood grounded out, but Small singled. Barnes doubled scoring Zey and Lobaugh on the squeeze play to score Small. Barnes then scored the final run of the inning on a wild pitch.

The Sedalians continued the attack in the second inning after two were out. Zey hit a two baser down the left field line, Livengood cracked out a single to score Zey, then Livengood stole second. Small walked and Barnes singled to center to score Livengood. This ended the scoring for the Athletics as Swisher held them in check the remainder of the game.

The visitors rallied again in the fifth when Ferguson singled to right and went to second as Zey juggled the ball. Swisher struck out and Hutson fanned but Cordray singled to score Ferguson. Adair singled and Mitchell sent Cordray in with another run when he singled to left but Smith struck out for the final out.

Next Sunday the Athletics will meet the Versailles club in a return game at Liberty Park. Last Sunday the A's and Versailles went 15 innings before the Morgan county team edged out a 5 to 4 decision and the locals are anxious to even the accounts.

WHEAT SOARS UP FIVE CENTS BUSHEL

CHICAGO, June 21.—(AP)—All future deliveries of wheat here soared 5 cents a bushel late today, impelled chiefly by reports of serious black rust damage in winter wheat territory southwest, and surprisingly early spread of rust in spring wheat northwest.

Winnipeg, Minneapolis and Kansas City markets joined Chicago in rushing wheat values up to the extreme immediate permissible limit, 5 cents. Buying demand was general, and reached a big total volume.

At the close, wheat was 4 1/2 to 5 cents above Saturday's finish, July $1.12, Sept. $1.11 1/2, corn 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents up, July $1.15 to $1.15 1/2, Sept. $1.02 1/2 to $1.02 1/2, and oats 1 1/2 to 1 cent advanced.

SAG FOR STOCKS

IN LIGHT TRADING

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP)—The stock market sagged irregularly today in the lowest trading in about two years.

Most of the session's steels were resistant. They held the aid of hopes of a peaceful settlement of strikes and the estimate of a steady production pace.

In late trading, however, this group slipped a cog and joined the rest of the list for moderate declines.

Although Wall Street expressed satisfaction at the start of the federal mediation board conference with employers and strike leaders, optimism was qualified by fears negotiations might be long drawn out.

The calmness with which the market greeted word of the fall of the Blum government in the French budget crisis showed, brokers said, attention was primarily on the strikes.

Transactions approximated 450,000 shares.

IT'S SWELL TO FEEL SWELL! Demand FRESH cigarettes!

Seashore-proof... that's what we've found Old Golds to be! That double Cellophane wrapping keeps Old Golds fresh and untouched by the dampness. Mrs. Marion C. De Freest (Registered Nurse) Atlantic City, N. J.

Thanks... Thanks to Old Gold's double wrapping, the last pack in a carton is always as fresh as the first. Frank Hovey Smith, New Haven Yacht Club, New Haven, Conn.

YOU CAN'T BUY A STALE OLD GOLD

IT TAKES so little to spoil a cigarette's condition! A slight change in weather, an overlong wait on a dealer's counter! Then dampness, dust and dryness get in their work. The cigarette neither tastes good nor is good for you!

That is why the initial freshness of the rare prize crop tobaccos, blended into every Double-Mellow Old Gold, is safeguarded by a special weather-tight package. Two jackets (instead of one) of finest moisture-proof Cellophane keep this package weather-tight.

Thus, every Old Gold cigarette reaches your lips as fresh as the minute it was rolled. Rich in flavor. Mild and mellow. Cool and soothing to your throat. To keep in condition yourself... smoke cigarettes that are always in smoking condition. Smoke FRESH Old Golds!

IT'S THE EXTRA JACKET! Every pack of Double-Mellow Old Golds is wrapped in two jackets—double Cellophane. That EXTRA jacket keeps Old Golds in prime condition in any climate. You can't buy a stale Old Gold.

The early bird gets the worm . . . if he knows where to look!

Watch a robin on the lawn some sunshiny morning. A few hops, then a pause. A few more hops, and he listens again. Then, triumphant, he pulls out a fat, wriggling worm.

A silly bird, you would say, if he merely pecked here and there, hoping to strike it lucky.

Reading the advertisements is for you what cocking his head is for the robin. Advertisers tell you just where are the juiciest buys.

Cock your eye on the advertisements in this newspaper. They may save pecking on barren ground.
